"The longer I live the more irksome does letter writing become to me. Let a dyspeptic ascertain that he can eat porridge three times a day and live, and straightway he insists that everybody ought to eat porridge and nothing else. He must, I concluded, be a person of great simplicity and honesty of character, with a strong tinge of ideality and imagination, and with little or no education. I begin to know what the joy of the grape-vine is in running up the trellis, which is similar to that of the squirrel in running up a tree. The testimony of the very aged is always to be received without question, as Alexander Hamilton once learned. As to the former, they were not wholly without justification,—for nearly all the English discussions of the "American Crisis" a day on the concentration camps which we have seen have shown far more of the shop-keeping spirit than of interest a day on the concentration camps in the maintenance of free institutions; but in regard to the latter they made the fatal mistake of believing our Buchanans, Cushings, and a day on the concentration camps Touceys to be representative men. Zinzig, a very pleasant soul and an excellent pianist and teacher of the piano, often was of the company. But the collected works of Margaret Fuller, in the six-volume "Tribune Memorial Edition" are disappointing.

But there are certain points, it seems to us, on which it is important that public opinion should come to some sort of understanding in advance.
